Co-curricular activity participation: Participation in co-curricular activities approved by the English Department and the Communication Studies and Theatre Art Department is a required part of the Communication Arts/Literature licensure. Two different co-curricular activities are required. A minimum of one semester of participation for each activity is suggested; however, participation should not occur during the student teaching semester. Teaching majors are responsible for getting specific information on co-curricular participation requirements from the CSTA and English departments. Suggested activities include forensics; a media activity such as AfterWork, Cobber yearbook, Concordia On-Air, The Concordian, or KORD radio; Campus Service Commission (when English-or education-related and not a requirement for an existing course); theatre; or alternate co-curricular activity approved in advance by the student's advisor and the CSTA Department and English Department chairs.
