Bright Futures

A Concordia art major provides outstanding liberal arts preparation for many different careers. Many of our graduates work as designers, illustrators, creative directors and advertisers for print and other media in many locations, including Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, New York, Seattle, San Diego, along with Canada, Finland, Germany, Mexico and Norway.

Several of our recent graduates are completing advanced degrees in painting, printmaking, ceramics, sculpture and performance art at the New York Center of Art and Media Studies, the University of Oregon, the University of North Dakota, Iowa State University, Maryland Institute College of Art, Savannah College of Art and Design and more. Still others work as studio artists. A sculpture graduate is a model maker for a nationally known manufacturing company and two of our recent art history graduates now teach in the Concordia art department.
