

At a Glance

Concordia's English department offers three majors:

- English literature
- English writing
- English with communication arts/literature education

Related major:

- Multimedia journalism (interdisciplinary program)

Students can minor in English and English writing. Elementary education majors can obtain an add-on endorsement for communication arts/literature. An honors program is available for exceptional students.

Contact Us

Web: www.ConcordiaCollege.edu
Phone: (800) 699-9897 or (218) 299-3004
E-mail: admissions@cord.edu
Mail: Office of Admissions, Concordia College
901 8th St. S., Moorhead, MN 56562

ENGLISH

"The English program at Concordia prepared me to be a lifelong learner and an effective teacher. The program helped me think globally, communicate effectively and prepare my own students to be leaders in a rapidly changing future."

— Ryan McCallum '01,
English teacher at Buffalo-
Hanover-Montrose Schools
(Minn.), recipient of the 2011
Lars Steltzner Intellectual Freedom Award and
2011 Minnesota Journalism
Educator of the Year

CONCORDIA
COLLEGE

Moorhead, Minnesota

Why Study English Here?

Concordia English majors engage the world through words. By studying English, you equip yourself for life by learning to:

- read challenging texts
- communicate complex ideas
- use reading, research and writing to render the ordinary extraordinary

1.

Learn from our expert faculty.

They are active writers, editors, scholars and journalists.

2.

Experience literature where it was created.

Study James Joyce in Dublin, Robert Frost in New England, Shakespeare in England or contemporary Arctic writers in Norway.

3.

Write or edit for one of our campus publications:

"New Voices" academic journal, "Djembe" multicultural journal, "Afterwork" literary magazine, "The Concordian" newspaper

Did You Know?

Two National Book Award finalists visit Concordia every year. Students have the opportunity to listen to the authors talk about their writing and engage them in conversation.

Great Careers

English graduates are succeeding in a variety of careers. Some examples are: president of the National Press Club, technical writer at Microsoft, practicing lawyer in Minneapolis, national reporter for the Associated Press, Chicago 4.

Conduct research or present a lecture locally or at a national conference. A professor will mentor you during your project.

5.

Go around the world in 25 days while studying postcolonial literature and travel writing. Study ethnography in Scotland, teach English to orphans in Rwanda or spend a semester in England, Ireland or India.

6.

Intern or volunteer for newspapers, advertising agencies, nonprofit organizations, law firms and radio stations in the bustling Fargo-Moorhead metro.

7.

Find amazement and inspiration from the most mind-blowing and beautiful poetry, novels and stories in the world.

Want to know more?

Visit www.ConcordiaCollege.edu/English