Topic and Speaker Background

What is the high cost of low trust? Whose responsibility is trust? Can we be earning trust if people are not willing to give trust – where is the balance? Can we even trust – Martha Stewart? What has happened to trust within our society and within organizations? These are issues that Pam McGee will discuss in her presentation on leadership and trust.

Pam is Global Senior Organizational Consultant for Microsoft Great Plains. She has been with Great Plains for seven years, specializing in leadership consulting with the organization and with individual executives. She is very well respected for her experience and knowledge of organizational leadership. Pam has an MBA from UND.

Center for Ethical Leadership

The purpose of the Center for Ethical Leadership is to develop and enhance ethics-centered and values-based leadership for individuals and organizations through information programs and consultation.

Quality of leadership is a primary factor in the success or failure of any organization. Those in positions of leadership have a direct influence on the level of commitment, motivation and performance of their organization. They are continually in situations where their judgements and decisions impact others. Managers at all levels can improve their effectiveness in any organization by continually learning new leadership skills and practices.
